Overview of dairy farming

Dairy farming is a major livelihood and subsidiary income to farmers and agricultural labourers. They play a very important role for milk production since consumption in both urban and rural areas has risen sharply. The National Sample Survey of 1933-34 says about 5 percent of ~~our~~ total workforce depends on this. The manure from animals ~~provides~~ is used for improving soil fertility and crop yields and gas obtained by processing this is used for domestic purposes and for running engines to draw water from wells. Since ~~agri~~ agriculture is seasonal, employment for many persons is provided through dairy farming. Only 10 percent of milk produced is provided to 400 dairies. A specific Indian phenomenon is ~~an~~ unorganised sector handles 65-70 percent of national milk product and sell it in both urban and non-urban areas.
